

Fancy a day out in the New Forest?

Just an hour by car from Alice Holt Forest, a totally wild and tranquil experience awaits you at the New Forest!

It's an experience you can't find anywhere else in Europe because it is the largest remaining area of lowland heath in the continent and just wonderful to explore on foot, by bike or on horseback.

It is especially rich in wildlife and there's so much to see – ancient oak trees, deer, reptiles, birds of prey and, of course, the famous New Forest ponies roaming free.

Forest Facts

- Each New Forest pony is branded and owned by one of about 500 'commoners'. They have legal rights over around 7,000 livestock including ponies, cattle and sheep. The animals' grazing prevents the heathland from turning into heavy scrub.
- The New Forest name comes from a time when it was first designated as a royal hunting ground in 1079, from the Latin 'nova foresta' which literally means 'new hunting ground', not a forest with trees!

About half of the New Forest National Park is managed by the Forestry Commission. There are plenty of car parks and over 100 miles of waymarked tracks and paths. A cycle map of the New Forest, information on popular walks and other details are available on our website at www.forestry.gov.uk/newforest

If you want a great value family weekend away, why not try camping in the forest? Most of the campsites are open from 29 March and some are open all year – for details check www.campingintheforest.co.uk

You won't have any trouble finding a place to eat, either. There are plenty of pubs and restaurants in the towns and villages throughout the forest. You can find out more about what's available at the tourist information centre and museum in Lyndhurst.

Just outside the New Forest, there's yet another great day out for the family. At Moors Valley Country Park, near Ringwood, you can experience a ride on an authentic narrow-gauge steam train or visit the play areas and Tree Top Trail! www.moors-valley.co.uk

Pirate ship ahoy!

Shiver me timbers! Where there's a ship there are pirates! So grab your stripey tops, bandanas and eye patches for a pirate adventure at Alice Holt Forest.

A brand new pirate ship has appeared in Play Wood, opening up a whole treasure chest of exciting adventures for children.

Aye aye me hearties! There's plenty to do aboard before you set sail: climb the rigging, check under the decks for stowaways and if you find any of 'em they can walk the plank! Ooh arrr!

Make up your own sea shanties, write messages in bottles, or create your own treasure maps and become a famous explorer. So come aboard you landlubbers, hoist the Jolly Roger and sail the seven seas in search of treasure!

A huge thank you to Neil, Jon and Simon our forest rangers and fantastic volunteer Josh, plus our wonderful sponsors Shipwrights Way and South Downs National Park for this exciting new addition to the park.

We're on Facebook!

Be the first to find out what's happening at the Holt when you come and join us on Facebook. We love Alice Holt, and we know that our visitors do too, so we'd like you to share your photos and tell us about what you enjoy most in the forest, especially if you have any top tips that others might enjoy!

Learning for all

2011 was a bumper year for school visits and other activities led by the education team. The number of students taking part in school trips during the summer term increased by an incredible 30% over 2010.

We already have a significant number of bookings for 2012 and are really looking forward to welcoming lots of schools to the forest this year. There's a great range of programmes to choose from for both schools and colleges, and we offer training in outdoor learning to teachers and Early Years practitioners.

If you'd prefer to organise your own self-guided visits, you're welcome to do that, too, but please let us know as we need to book you in.

For more information please visit www.forestry.gov.uk/aliceholt-learning or ring 01420 23666.

Bonfires, bow saws and lots of fun

We'd like to introduce you to some of our volunteers. Meet Alex, Alex, Ben and Luke from Ridgeway Community School, who help at Alice Holt Forest every Friday.

Accompanied by their learning support assistants, Natasha and Angie, and Ben's carer, John, they work with the Forestry Commission on an extended work experience placement which gives them a taste of the working world.

They have learnt how to use a bow saw and loppers safely and discovered what a difference teamwork makes in completing a huge task.

Angie explained, "Even though we are only working in a small area of Alice Holt Forest, which is gigantic by comparison, we are all really proud of how much invasive laurel we have cleared.

The lads wholeheartedly enjoy sawing down the smaller laurel trees by hand, using loppers to cut them into smaller pieces and burning them on bonfires. It's great to see how focused they are and how little support they need because they've learnt the skills and are enjoying the work.

We are all tired after a morning at Alice Holt Forest but no-one ever wants to return to school as we enjoy it so much. Ben especially enjoys riding on the mule, the all terrain forest vehicle.

Alice Holt staff always congratulate us on our hard work and achievement, which makes everyone feel great. And the lads are really proud to wear their green volunteer t-shirts as it makes them feel very much a part of the Forestry Commission team."

Easy access trail a big hit

Our work with Treloars in developing the Easy Access Discovery Trail has been the highlight of 2011.

It was opened on 5th October by Tony Reid, the Chief Executive of the Treloar Trust. The Easy Access Trail itself has been improved to make it more accessible to people with a range of disabilities. Additionally, the Discovery Trail activity leaflet has been updated and 'Talking Pictures' has been created. 'Talking Pictures' is a booklet with communications symbols which enables people with little or no speech to take a full part in the trail activities. It was developed by Laila Emms, a Treloar speech and language specialist. There's also a very special den structure so people in wheelchairs can enjoy den building just like anyone else.

'Talking Pictures' is available for hire free of charge (deposit required) from the café and the office. Trail leaflets are in car park dispensers.

War horses in the forest

Last autumn, Steven Spielberg came to Forestry Commission-owned Bourne Woods to film Michael Morpurgo's epic 'War Horse'.

As we can now reveal, our famous wood was host to hundreds of horses, a World War I German camp and huge guns for some of the scenes in this blockbuster movie. Many of the horses they used were actually rescue horses whose lives had been turned around by a caring owner and are now much sought-after movie stars!
