Improving the Quality of Restocking

Thursday 27 February 2003
Northern Research Station
Roslin, Edinburgh

During the next decade many of the conifer plantations created in the post-war expansion of forestry in Scotland and Northern England will reach maturity and be felled.
Successful restocking of these felled stands will be a major challenge.
